

Gwen Stefani Is 13 Weeks Pregnant

The famous pop and designer, Gwen Stefani, is 13 weeks pregnant, the British tabloids claim. If it's true this will be the second child for Gwen Stefani and her husband, musician Gavin Rossdale.

Rossdale's father in-law confirmed the rumor for the People.com. "They [Stefani and Rossdale] and the whole family are delighted," Douglas Rossdale said.

Their first child, a boy named Kingston Rossdale, will be two years old this May. Stefani and Rossdale dated for 6 years before getting married in September 2002 in London.

Gwen Stefani announced her first pregnancy during a concert in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in December 2005, when she asked the fans to sing along "loud enough so the baby hears it."

The singer kept on performing until she was four and a half months pregnant.

Last year, Gwen Stefani said in various occasions that she is ready ready to have another baby. But she said this time around she would rather not go on tour while pregnant.

She told US women's magazine InStyle in September 2007: "I can't wait to get pregnant again. It's so fun and consuming and romantic."

Gwen Stefani debuted in music as the lead singer of the rock group No Doubt. She has launched a solo career in 2004 and so far she recorded two albums: her debut album, "Love. Angel. Music. Baby"; and "The Sweet Escape" in 2006.

Gwen Stefani is set to sing on Timbaland's upcoming album, Shock Value II.